SECOND FRUIT TREE GIVEAWAY EVENT FOR GREEN MIAMI CAMPAIGN TO PROVIDE TREES, EDUCATIONAL INFORMATION AND TASTING
*Planting Your Own Fruit Saves money, Saves the Earth and Tastes Great!

MIAMI, FL – June 4, 2009 – Following the success of the first Fruit Tree Giveaway held May 30, City of Miami staff and volunteers will be distributing 700 fruit trees (mango, avocado, tamarinds, lychees) on Saturday, June 13, 2009 at the Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church (900 SW 26th Road) from 8am to 12pm to City of Miami residents ONLY.

Experts will also be on site to teach hands-on how to plant and care for the trees. Educational material about avoiding “hatracking”, also known as improper pruning that removes more than 25 percent of the tree’s canopy, will also be available.

Residents interested in the fruit trees, will be eligible to receive up to two four-ft. trees on a first-come, first-serve basis, per household, upon presenting proof of residency, such as a driver’s license or ID card with a City of Miami address and a utility bill with a City of Miami address.

The fruit tree giveaway is part of the City’s Green Miami Campaign and its first-ever Tree Master Plan that creates minimum standards in order to enhance, restore and stabilize the City’s tree canopy cover to a minimum of 30 percent by 2017 as well as to preserve and enhance Miami’s urban canopy. This effort aims to reach out to City of Miami residents interested in planting fruit trees, creating shade in their yard and decreasing their carbon footprint. “The environmental and health benefits of growing your own fruit are many,” points out Robert Ruano, Director of Grants and Sustainable Initiatives at the City of Miami. “And this is a great opportunity for us to promote how easy it is to be green, by providing free fruit trees to residents while helping meet Green Miami Campaign’s goals.”

Residents can also request that free shade trees are planted in the right of way near their homes through their Neighborhood Enhancement Team (NET) offices. New requests for trees from city residents are welcome by the City of Miami NET offices by calling 305-960-4NET or your local NET office.

The third fruit tree giveaway event will be held during the summer, informational to be determined. ABOUT THE GREEN MIAMI CAMPAIGN

Mayor Manny Diaz created the City of Miami Green Commission in 2006 to allow citizen input and expert insight on the city’s green policies. In April 2008, Mayor Diaz and the Green Commission announced the launch of the Green Miami Campaign, an exciting initiative to restore Miami’s tree canopy into a thriving urban forest through community tree plantings and education. The Green Miami Campaign will increase community awareness of the benefits of trees and how to protect them. The campaign is a partnership between Mayor Diaz’s Green Commission, the City of Miami, and community tree planting and educational organizations such as Citizens for a Better South Florida, Hands on Miami, Tremendous Miami, Roots in the City, Operation Green Leaves, and the Treeman Trust.
